FOR YOUR SAFETY

Hiking along the shoreline is a great way to explore the Mingan Archipelago, but please, be aware of the following risks:

Falling rocks are a hazard near the cliffs. When possible, keep a safe distance, avoid walking beneath overhanging rocks and do not stop at the base of cliffs. Hike around low tide to stay away from the cliffs. Even with these precautions, be aware that falling rocks may sometimes be unavoidable and dangerous.

Please proceed with caution. Some areas along the shoreline may present difficult walking conditions and may cause you to fall. At low tide, water and seaweed on the rocks create slippery conditions. Hiking along the shoreline can be difficult at high tide as water may block the trail.

Climbing on the monoliths is dangerous and prohibited.

Transportation and Nautical Activities

The Mingan Archipelago National Park Reserve is only accessible by boat.

The boat operators mentioned in this brochure provide a variety of transportation services to the islands. Through an agreement with Parks Canada, these operators must respect the itineraries and schedules as well as ensure a high standard of service.

It is strongly recommended that you contact these service providers for more information or to make reservations. A minimum number of passengers is required for the trips to take place.

Note: The islands are accessible by personal watercraft. However, it is prohibited to access the park with private boat operators who do not hold a business license issued by Parks Canada.

NOTICE

Some contractors offer activities outside of the park. These activities, including navigation around the park, are the sole responsibility of the contractors concerned.

Parks Canada is not responsible for accidents or incidents that may occur during activities outside the park boundaries.

Contact the boat operator to learn more about maritime conditions before your departure (recommended).

PRACTICING NAUTICAL ACTIVITIES BY YOURSELF? - BE INFORMED!

Before setting out to enjoy sea activities in the archipelago, make sure you have all the equipment and information you need. This will contribute to your safety and enhance your experience.

A CONSERVATION TEAM DEDICATED TO THE PROTECTION OF NATURAL AND CULTURAL RESOURCES

MINGAN THISTLE

The Mingan thistle, an endangered species in Canada, is the focus of conservation efforts at the Mingan Archipelago National Park Reserve. From 2017 to 2021, conservation efforts have increased. Over 11,000 seeds and more than 500 seedlings have been transplanted to the colonies, not to mention numerous habitat restoration actions. Although the population has grown from 444 plants in 2017 to 3,652 in 2021, its condition remains precarious. The mortality rate remains high in 2023, and coastal colonies are still affected by winter storms. In 2024, the conservation team will evaluate how successful the recovery actions were.

Come and see this rare thistle at Jardin Virginia, near the Havre-Saint-Pierre marina, to explore its history and beauty.

MONITORING ARCTIC AND COMMON TERNS

The park reserve is home to a large population of Arctic and common terns, whose coastal nesting is a key indicator of the ecological integrity of this environment. Monitoring is carried out every five years from Île aux Perroquets to Grosse île au Marteau and every ten years throughout the park reserve. It uses the number of nests and the average number of eggs per nest to assess the state of tern populations. In 2019, the inventory stood at 4,661 nests, suggesting an increase in the breeding population. The 2024 inventory, carried out by the conservation team, will allow us to continue monitoring the status of populations, which may be influenced by several factors exacerbated by climate change, including loss of coastal habitat and food availability.

STUDYING INSECT BIODIVERSITY

A noticeable decline in global insect populations, linked to environmental disturbances and climate change, has been observed for nearly two decades. However, few studies have documented this phenomenon in Quebec and Canada. In collaboration with the Canadian Forest Service and 10 national parks in Eastern Canada, including the Mingan Archipelago National Park Reserve, malaise traps will be installed in these environments, which have remained relatively undisturbed since they were established. These tent-like traps direct the insects into a bottle. In the summer of 2024, you will have the chance to observe these structures along the Quarry Island trail, and perhaps see the conservation team in action, collecting bottles to send to the laboratory. The 2024 results will be compared to results from 2012 and 2023, using DNA extraction methods to identify the insects collected.

THANK YOU FOR RESPECTING THIS FRAGILE AREA:

- › Use only established trails or keep to areas with no vegetation when walking along the coastline.
- › Respect the Code of Ethics for Seabird Observation and Navigation in the Mingan Archipelago.
- › Make sure to read and obey park regulations.
- › Bring your garbage back with you after your stay in the park.
- › Avoid feeding the animals.
- › Leave your drone at home.

PRESENCE OF SURVEILLANCE CAMERAS

Surveillance cameras are used in this national park reserve for wildlife conservation purposes. Are you concerned about protecting your privacy? We are too. That's why we delete visitor images taken by our cameras. However, if the images show illegal activities that may have serious impacts on wildlife or that jeopardize visitor safety, they may be used for enforcement purposes.

Come meet our Visitor Services Attendants. They will be happy to give you more information on our activities and services. Let them make your visit a memorable one!
